Former BJP MP Chauhan joins Congress

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
VADODARA, NOVEMBER 1

FORMER BJP MP from Halol Lok Sabha seat Prabhatsinh Chauhan joined the Congress party on Tuesday at the party's Parivartan Sankalp Yatra in Fagvel.

Chauhan had been upset with the BJP since 2017 when the party fielded his daughter-in-law Suman Chauhan in the Assembly polls from Kalol constituency while Chauhan had demanded a ticket for his wife. In the 2019 Lok Sabha polls, Chauhan was sidelined.

On Tuesday, Chauhan joined the Congress party in presence of senior leaders Sachin Pilot, Amit Chavda, Naran Rathwa, Jagdish Thakor, Sukhram Rathwa and Siddharth Patel. Sources said that Chauhan is aspiring to contest the upcoming polls from Kalol or Godhra assembly constituency.

A senior BJP leader said, "The party had been trying to explain to him that he must involve himself in party activities. But he has been aloof and trying to push his family members for party tickets. It is strictly not allowed anymore... We had been expecting this move for a long time and it has come before the polls. Since he was barely active in the party nowadays, his departure will not affect the prospects of the BJP."

Chauhan, known to be close to former CM Shankarsinh Vaghela, was elected as a Congress MLA from Kalol in 1980 but joined the BJP in 1991. He was a BJP MLA from Kalol in 1998 and 2002 and was also a Minister of State under the chief ministership of Narendra Modi in Gujarat. In 2009 and 2014, he contested and won two consecutive terms as MP from Panchmahal.

Chauhan's daughter-in-law Suman Chauhan is a BJP MLA from Kalol and was recently in the news for being part of the Jail Advisory Committee (JAC) that recommended the release of the 11 life-term convicts in the 2002 Bilkis Bano case.

Contribution of tribals in freedom struggle excluded from history, says Modi

Declares Mangarh Dham national monument

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
VADODARA, NOVEMBER 1

PRIME MINISTER Narendra Modi Tuesday urged the governments of Gujarat, Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh, and Maharashtra to "join with the central government" to develop Mangarh Dham — the Govind Guru memorial located on the Gujarat-Rajasthan border — into a global tourist spot.

Modi, who was speaking at Banswada in Rajasthan where he inaugurated the Mangarh Dham, was flanked by Chief Ministers Ashok Gehlot of Rajasthan, Shivraj Singh Chauhan of Madhya Pradesh and Bhupendra Patel of Gujarat.

The PM declared Mangarh Dham a national monument, and paid tribute to 1,500 tribals, led by Govind Guru, who were massacred by the British at Mangarh Dham on November 17, 1913.

Addressing an audience comprising Bhil tribals from Gujarat, MP and Rajasthan, Modi said that the incident was an "example of the brutality of the British" that carried the "mindset of oppressive slavery".

"The November 17, 1913 massacre that happened here was an example of the brutality of the British... On the one hand, there were innocent tribals, who believed in the concept of freedom and on the other hand, there were British, with the mindset of oppressive slavery across the world," the Prime Minister said.

He added that India is "correcting the mistake" of excluding the contributions of tribals from the history of the country's freedom struggle.

"Unfortunately, the place that the tribals could have got in the pages of history was not given. In the 75th year of India's Independence, the country is correcting its mistake and filling that gap. India's past, history, present, and future without the tribal community is incomplete... Even before the 1857 revolt, the tribals had, in 1780, in Santhal started the first fight against the British," Modi added.

He said, "There has been a discussion on expanding tourism in Mangarh. The four states of MP, Gujarat, Rajasthan and Maharashtra have to work together. It is my request to all four governments to discuss at length the development of Mangarh and to create a roadmap so that this memorial of Govind Guru becomes a world tourist spot..."

On the occasion, Modi heaped praises on Govind Guru and said that the current governments were working to build museums to showcase the tribal legacy so that youth and future generations draw inspiration from unsung heroes.

Urging the Chief Ministers of the four states to work together for tribal development, Modi said, "The contribution of tribals is so huge that we have to work together, dedicated to serving the diverse tribal communities in Gujarat, Rajasthan, and Madhya Pradesh..." Modi also said that the inauguration of the 300-kilometre broad gauge railway line connecting Asarva to Udaipur would benefit "tourism and industrial development" in tribal areas of Rajasthan.

On the occasion, Shivraj Singh Chauhan said that India had faltered in "teaching the correct history" after independence. "The correct freedom history was not taught after independence but now, Modiji has also decided to celebrate the Janjatiya Gaurav Divas on November 15, and in MP, we will do so by implementing the PESA Act in tribal areas," he said.

Speaking at the event, Gehlot urged PM Modi to intervene in a "suspended" railway project connecting Banswada to Gujarat and MP, in order to boost tourism to the Mangarh memorial.

Stating that Modi was "receiving respect" across the world as he was representing the land of India, Gehlot said, "The history of Mangarh is written in golden letters in India's freedom struggle. It is a matter of pride for us that Mangarh has been turned into a memorial... When Modiji travels to the world, he gets so much respect. Why? It is because he comes from the land of India, where there was Gandhiji, where there is strong democracy which has survived even after 70 years."

Speaking at the event, Gujarat CM Bhupendra Patel also offered condolences to the victims of the Morbi suspension bridge tragedy.

Patel said: "I offer condolences to those who have passed away in the tragic accident in Morbi two days ago. I pray for the souls of the departed persons to be granted rest. We are grateful to Prime Minister Narendra Modi for staying with us in this hard time and guiding us to lead Gujarat out of this grief."

INAUGURATES WORKS WORTH RS 858 CR IN JAMBUGHODA

Form a 'suraksha kavach' around BJP govt in Gujarat: PM to voters

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
VADODARA, NOVEMBER 1

PRIME MINISTER Narendra Modi who inaugurated development works worth Rs 858 crore in Jambughoda in Panchmahal on Tuesday urged the voters to form a "Suraksha kavach" around the BJP government in Gujarat to "protect the development works" that are ongoing in the state.

The PM also inaugurated two renovated schools — Rupsinh Nayak Primary school in Dandiypura and Sant Joriya Parameshwar Primary School in Vadek — named after local tribal revolutionaries, apart from laying the foundation stones for GMERS Medical College, Kaushalya Skill University and New Central University in Godhra.

Addressing a largely tribal gathering in Jambughoda, Modi said that tribals had suffered for decades due to the "discriminatory" mindset of previous governments. Modi said, "You know what was the condition of tribal areas 20-22 years ago... Children wanting to go to school from tribal areas had no choice, no transportation, no food, and no nutrition... Today you see, lakhs of tribals have benefitted from the schemes. This did not come in one night..."

Modi said, "Until the BJP came into power at the Centre and Atal Bihari Vajpayee became the Prime Minister, there was not even a ministry for tribals... We have included tribal representatives in making policies. Every year, from November 15, on Birsu Munda's birthday, we celebrate Janjatiya Gaurav Divas."

Adding that the Gujarat government has set up 10,000 schools, the PM said professional universities would soon become the identity of tribal areas. "From Umargaon to Ambaji, tribal youngsters wanted to become doctors... we resolved the issues and started science schools until Class 12. Now we have science and commerce colleges and so many hostels... we have two tribal universities in Gujarat," said Modi.

The upcoming university will be the first to train and get licences in drone flying so that tribal youth can fly drones, the PM said, adding, "We are now going to teach medicine in our mother tongue... The era has gone by when a person who did not know English could not study medicine. A network of medical colleges will come up from Ambaji to Umargaon..."

Speaking of the development schemes introduced in tribal areas over the years, Modi said he "felt the pulse" of the tribal people and had resolved to develop "places of tribal pride".

"In Pavagadh... for 500 years, no one thought of the dhwaja... But you gave us the blessings and today the dhwaja is flying high... All the shrines of Gods and Goddesses in tribal areas were neglected for years... Panchmahal district is the centre of tourism with Champaner and Pavagadh, which are known for their architecture. The government is making attempts to push the tourist spots... I know how tourism has to be brought here and places of tribal pride have to be developed."

Urging the voters to ensure that the 'double engine' of the BJP government does not come to a halt, Modi said, "We have clear intentions and clear policies. We are hardworking, honest people... You have to be our Suraksha kavach (armour)... the development of Gujarat is a must for the development of India."
